CLASS PROPERCY

One balm, evenior in the spring of 1963 tired after a good day's work of the office, yot wellsatisfied with life -- who could be otherwise after the hearty meal I had just enjoyed? -- I rested by head against the back of my comfortable arm chair, let my nemspaper fall to the floor, and dozed off, accompanying the soft music of the radio with a gentle snore. As most be who fo when the sleep, I began to dream. I saw myself a hobo (not a train) welling down a country lane towards a group of farmhouses. Hare I met the farmers vives, Audrey Branche, Phyllis Barkley, Rathleon Ressecuie and Mildred McGrath, canning fruits and vegetables for winter use. I learned from them that John Sullivan and Francis Green, both Doctors of Agriculture, grew these foods using the most perfect fertilizer which the had created.

I left the country and traveled along the greatest and fastest highway in the world. In the suburb of Niagara, nowthe capital of the world, I stopped at the lunicipal Airport. Here I found a large crowd the center of which was the largest airplane in the world about to take off. I discovered the pilot to be Welson Phelos, who was the commender of the Air Force. His co-oilet was Tad Savehuck, Soldier of fortune, looking for new worlds to conquer.

Returning to the highway, I continued on my way towards Niagera. Along the highes, I notices adverticements of the latest cinema and television attractions, also telephotos of Admiral Donald Imerton reviewing his great Mayal Fleet. Carl Dodge proluced these advertisements.

In the suburbs of Hiegera, I traversed the camous of the orld College, where I met Jack ve ett, Doctor of Lodern Histor, and Director of Athelticast the college. I also not his wife, the former Shirley Orvis -- like her husband, a leader in the field of Conomics.

On entering the metropolis of Miagara, I was amezed to find then the largest skyscraper was owned by one man, a bookkeeper who kept account of coroorations all over the globe. His name was Throy Kimmett. I also learned that the architectural and artistic features were created be the government's own civil engineer, a woman at that -- none other than Joan Thomas.

Passing through the City Park, I heard a soap box orator attempting to revive his beloved old Democratic Party. When I asked his name, he said he was Robert Bailey. At the amphitheater in the park, I stopped to hear Margaret Griffen and her Symphonic Orchestra give a delightful concert under the stars. As we, in her spellbound audience sat enthralled by beautiful music, music of another tone was heard. I awoke to the song of birds rejoicing the dawn of a new day. Of, well, it was nice seeing you in my dreams, anyway, old classmates of 1943.

CLASS POEM

Four years have passed.

We, the Class of 1943

Have spent them together.

Now each of us is free

To choose his own path.

We graduate in time of war,
We realize and will do our part
For have we not memories
Each well stored in our hearts
Of peaceful days spent at S. H. S?

Memories of classmates and friends
Of hours of work and play-All that made up a "schooling"
And filled so much of each day
With fun and laughter and tears.

Joan Thomas

CLASS HISTORY

When finally the Class of 1943 pauses in reverent dignity at the threshold of our school, we take time to review quietly the events of the past four years.

On a warm autuan morning in 1931, eleven little children marched gaily to the Sackets Harmor School for the first time to great their new teacher, Miss Eddy. We all considered it the most joyous stage in our education-modeling with clay, drawing and making new friends.

The following year we entered the second grade under the instruction of liss houston (now Mrs. Mong) where we were joined by Boo Hess, Jeanne Jackson and Ted Sawchuck. That year we focused our minds more on our school work and forgot our "babyish tricks."

With promotions in June everyone passed to the third year. We were very happy in returning that fall since we were assigned to an entirely new modernized room. Our te cher was Miss Walroth.

Here we spent a year studying hard, making silhouettes and framing them. Our teacher, Miss Miller (now Mrs. Stratton), put on a C bristmas play in which we all participated. In mid-year the class was increased by Charles Kerridge, who had moved from California. In June, we spent an industrious week rehearing for the commencement exercises, which were a great success.

Success was with us again and we all marched into the fifth grade where Jack Everett joined us. Our teacher, Hiss Dustirk, was very good to us and with her permission, a group of us sponsored a short Chinese play. We remember this year also as the first year in which we had received music instruction, under Hiss Gross. Every Friday the fourth grade would join us and we would have a singing bee, which tended to make our school hours brighter.

In 1936, in the sixth grade with Miss Tacon, as our teacher, we really got down to business. Each of us rerely received a mark below 90 and if we did, we were considered "poor students." We will always remember the "ping-pong" paddle on which each of us autographed our names.

The succeeding year, or our junior high, we toiled in pride and carnest t king our first regents, geography and spelling. Passing from room to room and having a teacher for each subject was unfamiliar to us all. Miss Carter was our home room teacher.

(Places turn the page)

Our last elementary year, a joyous and momentous one, was characterized by hard studying and with Mr. Skalko's leadership, we all advenced into our freshman year. We all felt grown up and had accomplished a great deal. This marked the year of the centralization of the school by which several new departments appeared—homomaking, agriculture and band. Several new students joined our group. Among them, Alice and Audrey Branche, Phyllis Barkley, Gladys Fluno, Kathleen Besseguie, Ruth Tamblin, Mary Gardner, Bill Lavanchard, and Sydney Lawrence.

In 1938, when our respective Freshman Class assembled, thirty-five members answered the call. With everyone in high spirits and Mr. Huttemann, who has be n with us ever since, as our Class Advisor, class officers were elected: Elroy Kimmett as president, Carl Dodge as vice-president, and Jeanne Jackson as secretary and treasurer. With the exception of the reffling of a fruit cake, no other activities worth relating here happened. Bill Mesic's and Grance Locklear left us the latter semester.

Our sophwore ye r in which very few inter-class activities were held, was a tranquil one, but many changes had taken place in our school. Miss Pappa, our English tracher, joined the freulty. "Jo" Kelly was our president, Jack Everett was vice-president, and Elroy Kimmett was secretary and treasurer. Shirley Orvis joined our class.

In our junior year of High School, very little change had to en place, with the exception of saving Mr. Grestl and Mr. Smith joining the faculty. The Junior Prom in June and receiving rings just before Christmas, were the two special occasions of this year. Jimmy LaPierre furnished music for the prom, which was a huge success. Four Seniors left us this term:

"Jo" Kelly, Bod Ives, Kenny Bagley and Charles Babcock. Kenny was the first member of our group to join the Armed Forces, the Marines, being sent to Parris Island. Jeanne Jackson, through great interest and ability, left us this term to graduate with the Seniors.

Finally, through painful effort we sighted the finel post in the hard race between us, destiny, and marks. At last we had gained the desired honor of being Seniors. With two new additions to our group, Ester Cough and Clarron Thomas, we started off in a "whem of excitement" by electing class of icors--Joan Thomas, president; Carl Dodge, vice-president; and Elroy Kimmett, secretary and treasurer. We all toiled through sedulous and conscientious work, by selling Christmas Cards, ice creen, sponsoring the Miahoure, and such extra-curricular activities.

here during those past four years, but it has been agreed that our disappointments have been outweighed by our good times. We bid a coremonious good-by, in a time of turmoil and strife, to our school and school-mates. We find that we regret nothing except the loss of old friends and hope that the next years graduating class will have an many happy memories as we have.

Zlroy Kimmett

Class Officers:

BASKETBALL

Along about basketball season high school athletics and their supporters began to "feel the pinch" of rationing gas and tires. Despite this drawback, a varsity team was formed of veteran players, David Russell, Carl Dodge, Jack Everett, Ted Sawchuck, and Robert Graves. These boys had the fighting spirit and triumphed over four formidable rivals, suffering defeat at its hands of the other five opponents on their schedule.

JUNIOR VARSITY

A lively and aggresive aggregation was the Junior Varsity. Out of a total of six games, this younger of players won three and lost three. Jack Zula, Leon Brown, Walter Campbell, James Bagley, Edward Everett, Ernest Villeneuve, and James Widrig played remarkably well. Their enthusiam and spirit outweighed the lack of experience and make the season a highly profitable and pleasant one. This group contains much good material for a future team.

Although the number of boys who participated in athletics is not as large as is desirable, those of the student body who have shared in, and benefited by athletes of every type wish to express their sincere and deep appreciation to Mr. Huttemann for his generosity, spirit and skill in training them.

BASEBALL

The Sackets Harbor baseball team of 1942 was very successful. Although most of the team was composed of new members we won half our games and lost half. The boys participating were Donald Emerton, Ted Seidler, Alfred Lyng, Theodore Sawchuck, Jack Everett Roger McBrath, Robert Braves, Kenworth Parker, Stuart Graves, Harold McMahon and Kieth White.

FOOTBALL

In the beginning of the season the prospects of a football team for Sackets Seemed remote. Certainly our physical education instructor, a girl, couldn't weach a football team! We were very much concerned with such a problem and spent long hours pendering what to do. Finally a solution presented itself in the person of our well respected Principal, Mr. Huttemann. When appealed to by Mr. Stratton, be. our representative, Mr. Huttemann agreed to assume the job of coaching.

Although our school season could not be classed a highly successful one, all the players profited by the experience gained and by chance to enjoy the sport. We won one game and lost five. Those participating were Stuart Graves, Carl Dodge, Theodore Sawchuck, Jack Everett, Donald Emerton, Louis Cannon, David Russell, Robert Graves, Jack Zula, James Piazza, Robert Londraville, Richard King, and Robert Ives.

CHEERLEADERS

As our four cheerleaders were leading a victorious cheer against Dexter, this picture was snapped. For the first time in the history of the school, letters were awarded for their active participation at all games. They are from left to right: Mildred Mc Grath, Jean Contridoff, Pauline Hayden, and Sally Phillips

ORCHESTRA

This year marked the initiation of a new music teacher, Miss Geraldine Edwards, who has cooperated vigorously with those participating in the various music organizations.

The orchestra, under the direction of Miss Edwards had the privilege of playing at the dedication of the Honor Roll Placque held at the U.S.O. No greater compliment could have been given to any organization than that one. The orchestra reached an even greater climax while playing "March of the Little Wooden Soldiers", and selections from "High School Pinafore" at the Annual Spring Concert.

BAND

This was particularly due to the number of members that graduated last year. This decrease did not stop the band! Several performances were given at the U.S.O. and at school assemblies. A brilliant climax was the Spring Concert in which the band appeared in full dress. Among the selections played by the band at the concert were: "Stout Hearted Len", by Sigmond Remburg and "Lustpiel" by Bela.

NIAHOURE

The NIAHOURE, title of our yearbook, is the name of the fierce tribes, who once beached their canoe beneath its cliffs, called Sackets Harbor. This land was then part of the favorite fishing and hunting grounds and a savage battle ground of bloody wars between different Indian tribes. Its banks are the scene of many Indian legends.

CHALLEFORR

The Challenger was organized in 1937 with Ellen McGrath as the first editor. Now in the fifth year of publication, many alterations have taken place with Pauline Tayden as editor.

Several members of the staff went to the Empire State Scholastic Press Convention held at Syracuse last fall. The paper was financed by subscriptions and the sale of candy.

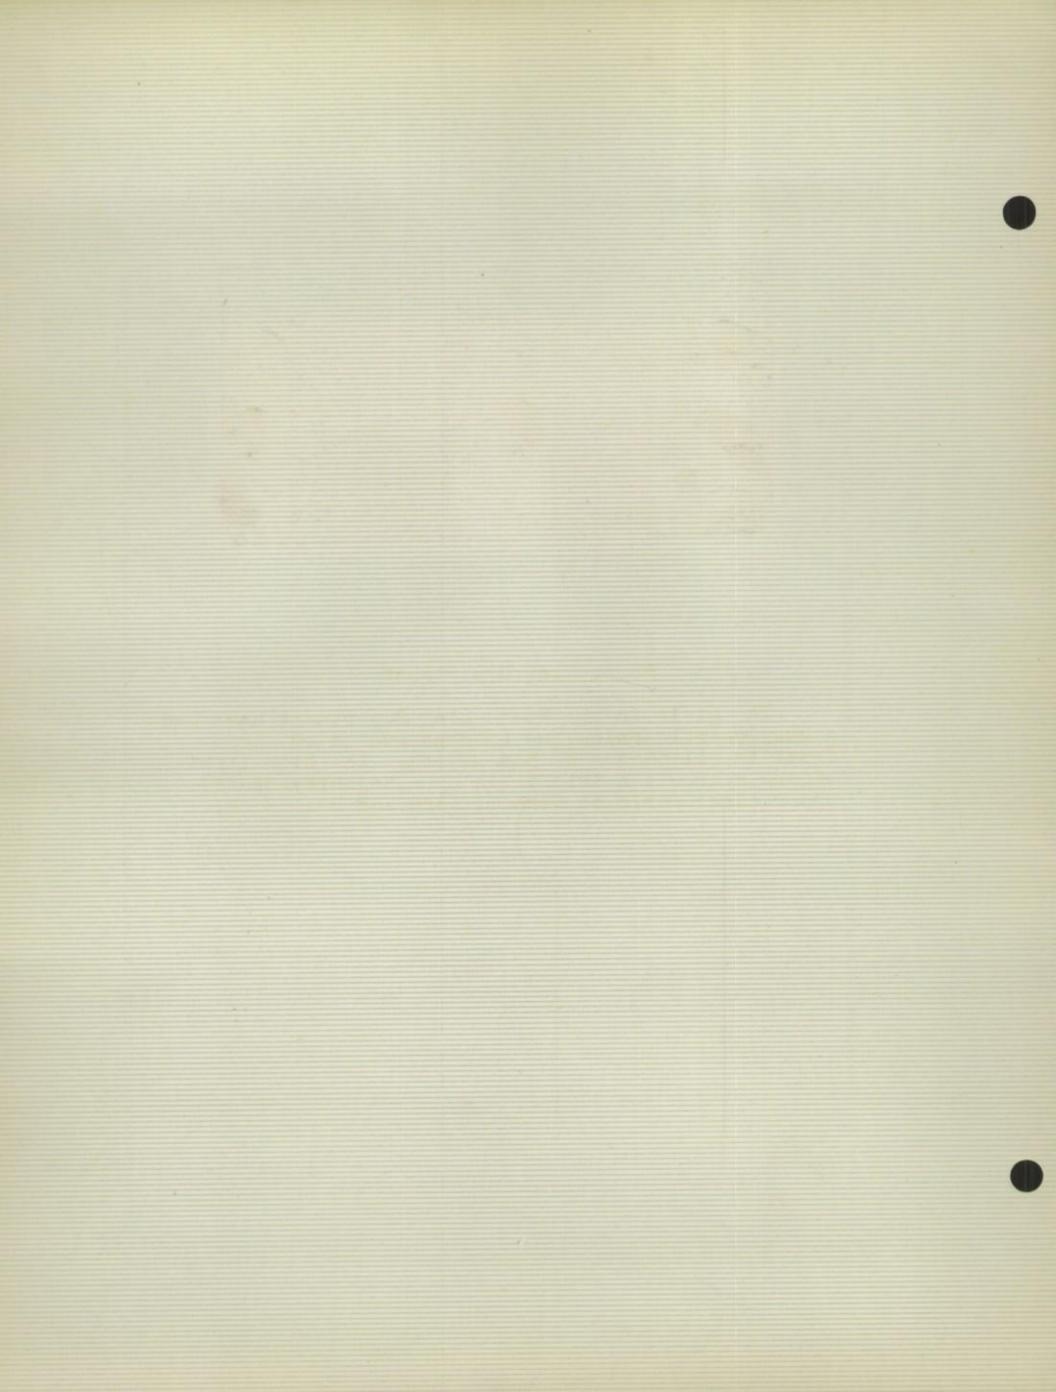

Challenger up to a standard school paper and with the cooperation of the staff, a state rating is sought in the future.

Homemaking Department

The girls in the Homemaking Department have had a busy year learning how to conserve on the home front in all phases of homemaking. The high light of the year was a trip taken by a majority of the upper class girls to Cornell Farm and Home Week.
